

Thailand: Idiotic border clashes

Wednesday 9 February 2011, by UNGPAKORN Giles Ji (Date first published: 6 February 2011).

Fascist PAD supporters, frothing at the mouth, cheered and clapped as a villager and a number of soldiers were killed in the idiotic border clashes between Thai and Cambodian soldiers. Thai troops damaged the ancient Pra Vihear temple that the extreme nationalists claim was “stolen” from Thailand. The PAD have been trying to start a war with Cambodia for months, using the pathetic excuse that an ancient Khmer temple “belonged to Thailand”. The fact that Thai troops damaged the temple with their shells proves that they don’t give a damn about it or the lives of innocent people.

The temple is clearly Cambodian. This is all a displacement activity by manic right-wing royalists who are afraid that they are beginning to become irrelevant. No doubt some PAD idiots want another military coup in Thailand and a prolonged war with Cambodia. They will not be on the border facing the bullets themselves, however. It will be the poor conscripts and villagers who pay the price. Recently a joint PAD-Democrat Party team deliberately intruded into Cambodian territory in order to cause an international incident. They were promptly arrested and PAD “nutter” Wira Somkwamkit is still in a Cambodian prison.

Prime Minister Abhisit, fresh from murdering 90 unarmed pro-democracy demonstrators in May last year, has said that he is not afraid of war with Cambodia. He wouldn’t be. He won’t be dying, nor will any of his rich relatives. His Foreign Minister Kasit Pirom is a well-known PAD member and has been itching for other people to die in a pointless war with Cambodia for years.

Colonel Sansern Keawkamnurd, former spokesman for the military security centre who coordinated the bloodbath against unarmed red shirts last May, said that “the Thai army could give as good as it got”. General Prayut Junocha, army chief, was also jumping up and down with glee. This is what the Thai army is really about: killing pro-democracy demonstrators and starting shooting matches with neighbouring countries in order to get people to forget the army’s crimes. All Thai military officers obviously have had their brains transplanted between their legs and their mouths stuffed up their bums in officer training school. Panitarn Wattanayakorn, Government spokesman and academic for hire from the Faculty of Political Science, Chulalongkorn University, said that the Government would build bomb shelters for locals. His brain is obviously too small to consider a peaceful solution to this pseudo border dispute.

Meanwhile, the Crown Prince’s dog “Foo Foo” has been appointed as an Airchief-Marshal. Perhaps the dog should be appointed as the next King. He wouldn’t do a worse job than the present imbecile.

---