

Malaysia: ‘Madani’ government must increase minimum wage

Saturday 8 February 2025, by Aliran (Date first published: 3 October 2024).

Last week, the Socialist Party of Malaysia (PSM) and the Government Contract Workers Network (JPKK) submitted a memorandum to Human Resource Minister Steven Sim, urging the government to increase the minimum wage to RM2,000. (Currently, the minimum wage is set at RM1,500.)

Earlier in March, Sim mentioned that the government will review the minimum wage this year, but there have been no updates on the matter since.

BMF speak to Saratbabu Raman, chief of PSM’s worker’s bureau about their push for a higher minimum wage.

Produced and presented by: Dashran Yohan/BFM

The views expressed in Aliran’s media statements and the NGO statements we have endorsed reflect Aliran’s official stand. Views and opinions expressed in other pieces published here do not necessarily reflect Aliran’s official position.

Aliran

Click here to subscribe to ESSF newsletters in English and or French.

P.S.

Aliran

<https://m.aliran.com/web-specials/madani-government-must-increase-minimum-wage>